The Chattahoochee Hill Country Alliance, a community-based nonprofit organization, is an alliance of neighbors working to create and implement a balanced growth approach that protects the quality of rural life in a 65,000 acre area of south Fulton, northwestern Coweta, eastern Carroll and eastern Douglas counties. The Chattahoochee Hill Country develops and implements innovative land use tools to ensure quality development, land conservation and ways for landowners to gain value for their property without selling or developing it.

A pre-concert gala dinner will be held on the grounds of Serenbe, a 900-acre residential and commercial community located in the Chattahoochee Hill Country. Dinner will hold true to the traditions of a southern family style dinner. The event is being hosted by the Chattahoochee Hill Country Alliance, Serenbe and the executive chefs from Serenbe's three restaurants—Chef Hilary White of The Hil, Chef Tony Seichrist of The Farmhouse, and Chef Nicolas Bour of The Blue Eyed Daisy. Individual tickets are $125; ll proceeds benefit the Chattahoochee Hill Country Alliance's Community Events Fund.
